

WHAT'S NEW IN JANUARY

JENNIFER NILSEN AND CAMPHILL SPECIAL SCHOOL ELECTED TO PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Jennifer Nilsen, Principal, has been elected to President of the Board of Directors for Camphill Special School, a non-profit private school for special needs children located in Glenmoore, PA. Camphill offers day and residential programs for children and youth with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Jen has been on the Board since 2011 and helped oversee the interior design for Camphill's Transition Program on the Beaver Farm Campus, the newly-completed pre-school and kindergarten building, as well as helped with overall school fundraising and event planning.

As President of the Board, she will continue to focus on maintaining the highest level of care, education, and especially love for the children. She will spearhead the implementation of Camphill's master plan study. On a personal note, she will also volunteer time during her tenure to work with the children on animal therapy. Congratulations to Jen on her new appointment, truly a special position that allows a special contribution!
